How did the Fund perform last year?

- For the reporting period ended February 28, 2026, the Fund returned 8.36%.
- For the same period, the ICE BofA US Broad Market Index returned 6.23%, and the ICE BofA 5-10 Year US Corporate Index (Spliced) returned 8.34%.

What contributed to performance?

U.S. bond markets gained during the reporting period, supported by a resilient domestic economy despite conflicting data. The Federal Reserve (“Fed”) reduced rates by 75 basis points across three 25 basis point rate cuts in late 2025, prompted by a cooling labor market amid elevated inflation. The yield on the 10-year benchmark U.S. Treasury ended lower as investors negotiated the administration’s trade policies, a prolonged U.S. government shutdown, and increasing geopolitical tensions later in the period.

The yield curve (the difference between a shorter-term bond and a longer-term bond, most often gauged by the two-year Treasury note and the 10-year Treasury note) continued to steepen as rate cuts pushed shorter-term yields lower, while inflation and heavy Treasury supply kept longer-maturity yields higher. (Bond yields move inversely to prices.) Against this backdrop, investment-grade corporate bonds outperformed Treasuries, reflecting solid U.S. economic growth, strong risk appetite, and confidence in corporate profits.

What detracted from performance?

There were no meaningful detractors from the Fund’s performance during the reporting period.
