

Key risk factors

Capital at risk. The value of investments and the income from them can fall as well as rise and are not guaranteed. Investors may not get back the amount originally invested.

Overseas investments will be affected by currency exchange rate fluctuations.

The Company invests in a number of developing emerging markets (“Frontier Markets”). Frontier Markets tend to be more volatile than more established markets and therefore present a higher degree of risk as they are less well regulated and may be affected by political and social instability and other factors. These markets do not generally operate as efficiently as those in more developed countries. Corruption remains a significant issue across frontier markets and could have a material adverse effect on the value of investments. In addition, potential irregularities in market operations relating to settlement of securities transactions, custody of assets and insolvency proceedings presents a material risk of loss of assets belonging to the Company. Investments may be subject to severe liquidity constraints which mean that securities may trade infrequently and/or volume may be concentrated in a small number of companies and across a limited number of investors and financial intermediaries. As a result, changes in the value of investments may be more unpredictable. In certain cases, it may not be possible to sell the security at the last market price quoted or at a value considered to be fairest BlackRock intends to invest in a representative number of the frontier markets although may not be able to achieve exposure in certain markets due to Office of Foreign Asset Control (OFAC) and United Nations (UN) sanctions and other counterparty considerations. Exposure is achieved where permitted by all practicable means including (but not limited to) equities listed on exchanges in frontier markets and derivatives thereof, American Depositary Receipts (ADRs), and Global Depositary Receipts (GDRs) and of companies with operations in frontier markets but whose equities are listed on developed market exchanges.

Company objective

The Company’s investment objective is to achieve long term capital growth by investing in companies domiciled or listed in, or exercising the predominant part of their economic activity in, less developed countries. These countries (the “Frontiers Universe”) are any country which is neither part of the MSCI World Index of developed markets nor one of the eight largest countries by market capitalisation in the MSCI Emerging Markets Index as at 1 April 2018: being Brazil, China, India, Korea, Mexico, Russia, South Africa, and Taiwan.

Comments from the Portfolio Managers

Please note that the commentary below includes historic information in respect of the performance of portfolio investments, index performance data and the Company's NAV and share performance.

The figures shown relate to past performance. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of current or future results.

The Company's NAV returned -1.5% versus the Company's benchmark (the MSCI Emerging ex Selected Countries + Frontier Markets + Saudi Arabia Index ("Benchmark Index")), which returned -1.7% in July¹. For reference, the MSCI Emerging Markets Index ended the month -6.7% and the MSCI Frontier Markets Index -0.3%¹ over the same period (all performance figures are on a US Dollar basis with net income reinvested).

July news flow was dominated by China with the market down 14% on the month on the back of regulatory tightening. This move led the MSCI Emerging Markets Index to fall 6.7% in July, underperforming the MSCI World Index by 8.7%. The frontier and smaller emerging countries fared much better, especially outside of Asia. The Delta variant remains a key concern, especially affecting countries where vaccinations are still lagging.

Egypt (+7.0%), Turkey (+6.4%) and Argentina (+6.4%) were some of the best performing markets in July while Philippines (-11.7%), Peru (-9.1%) and Thailand (-6.9%) lagged. Philippines and Thailand sold off on Covid-19 concerns and continued impact on travel and tourism in the region. Peru lagged on continued political uncertainty under new President Castillo.

In terms of contributors to performance over the month, the largest contributor once again was stock selection in Vietnam as our holdings in retailer Mobile World (+8.4%) and IT services company FPT Corp (+7.1%) continued their strong earnings and investment performance. Stock selection in Poland also contributed strongly, led by debt collection agency Kruk (+19.3%) benefiting from improved earnings prospects, as did our investment in Polish apparel retailer LPP (+9.5%). Our holding in FinTech company Kaspi (+6.8%) continued to benefit from structural trends. Allocation to Egypt was an additional contributor as the market rallied on hopes of recovery in domestic economy and tourism post Covid-19.

Primary detractors from performance in July were our holdings in the Philippines, tobacco company LT group (-26.0%) and casino and hotel resort operator Bloomberry (-14.8%) as the prospect of tourism returning to the region

Awards

Past performance is not a reliable indicator of current or future results and should not be the sole factor of consideration when selecting a product or strategy.

Kepler rated fund in the Income Category awarded to companies that generated consistent returns while delivering a high and rising income to investors (effective date: 30 January 2020).

seems further delayed. Peru also detracted through our financial holding in Credicorp (-16.6%) on the back of higher operating expenses as well as continued political uncertainty surrounding the cabinet appointments under new President Castillo. IRPC Thai energy refiner and cracker (-10.6%) share price performance was disconnected from its positive earnings revisions given concerns around Covid-19 in Thailand.

We made a few changes to the portfolio in July. In ASEAN markets we trimmed winners in Vietnam and added to some of the underperformers in the Philippines. We also took some profit in Saudi miner MA'ADEN given uncertainty around aluminium price sustainability at current levels. Elsewhere in materials we added to Ukrainian Iron Ore company Ferrexpo which benefits from strength in ore prices; even as iron ore prices normalize, we expect strong cash generation to support the share price.

Overall, for countries that have stable macro environments and have made timely progress in vaccination rollouts, we believe the global macro recovery provides a favourable backdrop to recover lost economic productivity. Valuations in a lot of the frontier end emerging markets remain attractive relative to their own history and also relative to the more evolved markets. We believe our opportunity set is a compelling universe to generate alpha.

Glossary of terms

Alternative Investment Market (AIM)

AIM is the London Stock Exchange's international market for smaller growing companies. The AIM market has no restrictions on market capitalisation, and financial reporting is more flexible than for companies listed on the main market of the London Stock Exchange.

CFD (Contracts for Difference)

Under a CFD contract the seller undertakes to pay to the buyer the difference between the current value of an asset and its value at a specified end date; this may be a positive or negative amount dependant on how the price has moved. A CFD contract may be used to profit from the price of the underlying asset falling as well as rising; if the buyer enters into a contract where the transaction will generate a profit if the price of the underlying holding falls, this is called a short position. A CFD contract also enables the Company to take advantage of price movements by paying only a small margin and without the cost outlay of purchasing the underlying stock. CFD contracts are not without risks. They may generate losses as well as profits if the price of the underlying asset moves in an unfavourable direction. CFDs also involve counterparty risk – the risk the CFD provider or another counterparty to a trade fails to fulfil their obligations – and liquidity risk, which means market conditions/the mechanics of trading could alter in such a way that trades cannot be made

Discount/premium

Investment trust shares frequently trade at a discount or premium to NAV. This occurs when the share price is less than (a discount) or more than (a premium) to the NAV. The discount or premium is the difference between the share price (based on mid-market share prices) and the NAV, expressed as a percentage of the NAV.

Discounts and premiums are mainly the consequence of supply and demand for the shares on the stock market.

Gearing

Investment companies can borrow to purchase additional investments. This is called 'gearing'. It allows investment companies to take advantage of a long-term view on a sector or to take advantage of a favourable situation or a particularly attractive stock without having to sell existing investments. Gearing works by magnifying the company's performance. If a company 'gears up' and then markets rise and the returns on the investments outstrip the costs of borrowing, the overall returns to investors will be even greater. But if markets fall and the performance of the assets in the portfolio is poor, then losses suffered by the investor will also be magnified.

Net yield

The net yield is calculated using total dividends declared in the last 12 months (as at date of this factsheet) as a percentage of month end share price.

NAV (Net Asset Value)

A company's undiluted NAV is its available shareholders' funds divided by the number of shares in issue (excluding treasury shares), before making any adjustment for any potentially dilutive securities which the Company may have in issue, such as subscription shares, convertible bonds or treasury shares. A diluted NAV is calculated on the assumption that holders of any convertibles have converted, subscription shares have been exercised and treasury shares are re-issued at the mid-market price, to the extent that the NAV per share is higher than the price of each of these shares or securities and that they are 'in the money'. The aim is to ensure that shareholders have a full understanding of the potential impact on the Company's NAV if these instruments had been exercised on a particular date.

Ongoing charges ratio

Ongoing charges (%) =

$$\frac{\text{Annualised ongoing charges}}{\text{Average undiluted net asset value in the period}}$$

Ongoing charges are those expenses of a type which are likely to recur in the foreseeable future, whether charged to capital or revenue, and which relate to the operation of the investment company as a collective fund, excluding the costs of acquisition/disposal of investments, financing charges and gains/losses arising on investments. Ongoing charges are based on costs incurred in the year as being the best estimate of future costs and include the annual management fee.

Treasury shares

Treasury shares are shares that a company keeps in its own treasury which are not currently issued to the public. These shares do not pay dividends, have no voting rights and are not included in a Company's total issued share capital amount for the purpose of calculating percentage ownership. Treasury stock may have come from a repurchase or buyback from shareholders, or it may have never been issued to the public in the first place. Treasury shares may be reissued from treasury to the public to meet demand for a company's shares in certain circumstances.

Risk Warnings

Capital at risk. The value of investments and the income from them can fall as well as rise and are not guaranteed. Investors may not get back the amount originally invested.

Past performance is not a reliable indicator of current or future results and should not be the sole factor of consideration when selecting a product or strategy.

Changes in the rates of exchange between currencies may cause the value of investments to diminish or increase. Fluctuation may be particularly marked in the case of a higher volatility fund and the value of an investment may fall suddenly and substantially. Levels and basis of taxation may change from time to time.

Trust specific risks:

Gearing risk. Investment strategies, such as borrowing, used by the Trust can result in even larger losses suffered when the value of the underlying investments fall.

Emerging Europe. Emerging market investments are usually associated with higher investment risk than developed market investments. Therefore, the value of these investments may be unpredictable and subject to greater variation.

Exchange rate risk. The return of your investment may increase or decrease as a result of currency fluctuations.

Frontiers. Frontier markets are generally more sensitive to economic and political conditions than developed and emerging markets. Other factors include greater 'Liquidity Risk', restrictions on investment or transfer of assets and failed/delayed delivery of securities or payments to the Fund. There may be larger fluctuations to the value of your investment and increased risk of losing your capital.
