Commentary as of 06/30/21

- The fund posted returns of 10.06% (Institutional shares) and 9.89% (Investor A shares, without sales charge) for the second quarter of 2021.
- During the quarter, the majority of the fund's underperformance relative to the benchmark was due to its agriculture equity exposure.
- At quarter-end, the fund had overweight positions in the industrial metals sub-industry and the energy sector, and underweight positions in the precious metals & minerals and agriculture & livestock sub-industries. The largest absolute equity exposure was to energy.

Contributors	Detractors
Toward the end of the quarter, the fund's off-benchmark exposure to energy equities performed well. Canadian oil and gas producer Tourmaline Oil, for example, added value due to the rise in oil prices. The company also agreed the purchase of privately owned Black Swan Energy, a move that was well received by investors and further consolidated the group's exposure to North Montney shale resources.	The fund's off-benchmark exposure to agriculture and nutrition equities detracted from returns. At a stock level, Jamieson Wellness was one of the largest detractors as the health and wellness company's share price gave back some of the strong gains it made in 2020. Elsewhere, the fund's commodity futures exposure weighed on returns.

Further insight

We believe inflation expectations could continue to rise throughout 2021. Historically, commodities and natural resources equities have performed well in absolute terms and relative to broader equity markets during periods of rising inflation expectations. In the energy space, COVID-19 vaccine rollouts and economic recovery should lead to rising oil demand. Meanwhile, production by non-members of the Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries is likely to move into structural decline. In mining, mined commodity demand should be supported by fiscal stimulus and increased infrastructure spending this year, and, in the long term, by the transition to a lower-carbon economy. In the agriculture sector, improving crop prices should both persist and benefit upstream agriculture. We also continue to see structural growth opportunities in nutrition.

★★★★★ Morningstar Overall™

Institutional shares rated against 97 Commodities Broad Basket Funds, as of 6/30/21, based on risk-adjusted total return. Ratings are determined monthly and subject to change. The Overall Morningstar Rating for a fund is derived from a weighted average of the performance figures associated with its 3-, 5- and 10-year (if applicable) Morningstar Rating metrics.†

Important Risks: The fund is actively managed and its characteristics will vary. Stock and bond values fluctuate in price so the value of your investment can go down depending on market conditions. Holdings shown should not be deemed as a recommendation to buy or sell securities. Investing in commodity-linked derivatives and commodity-related companies may increase volatility. Price movements are outside of the fund's control and may be influenced by weather and climate conditions, livestock disease, war, terrorism, political conflicts and economic events, interest rates, currency and exchange rates, government regulation and taxation. International investing involves special risks including, but not limited to political risks, currency fluctuations, illiquidity and volatility. These risks may be heightened for investments in emerging markets. Investments in natural resources industries can be affected by variations in commodities markets, weather, disease, embargoes, political and economic developments, taxes and other government regulations. Futures trading can lead to large losses. Trading losses can sharply reduce the value of an interest in the fund. The fund may trade foreign futures contracts. Transactions on markets outside the United States may be subject to regulations that offer different or diminished protection. Commodity futures exposure is achieved through investments in, but not limited to, commodity-linked notes, swap agreements, commodity options, futures and options on futures. Derivatives entail risks relating to liquidity, leverage and credit that may reduce returns and increase volatility.

1 Fund inception: 10/3/11. 2 The unmanaged Bloomberg Commodity Index is comprised of exchange-traded futures on physical commodities. [†]The Morningstar Rating™ for funds, or "star rating", is calculated for managed products (including mutual funds, variable annuity and variable life subaccounts, exchange-traded funds, closed-end funds, and separate accounts) with at least a three-year history. Exchange-traded funds and open-ended mutual funds are considered a single population for comparative purposes. It is calculated based on a Morningstar Risk-Adjusted Return measure that accounts for variation in a managed product's monthly excess performance, placing more emphasis on downward variations and rewarding consistent performance. The top 10% of products in each product category receive 5 stars, the next 22.5% receive 4 stars, the next 35% receive 3 stars, the next 22.5% receive 2 stars, and the bottom 10% receive 1 star. The Overall Morningstar Rating for a managed product is derived from a weighted average of the performance figures associated with its three-, five-, and 10-year (if applicable) Morningstar Rating metrics. The weights are: 100% three-year rating for 36-59 months of total returns, 60% five-year rating/40% three-year rating for 60-119 months of total returns, and 50% 10-year rating/30% five-year rating/20% three-year rating for 120 or more months of total returns. While the 10-year overall star rating formula seems to give the most weight to the 10-year period, the most recent three-year period actually has the greatest impact because it is included in all three rating periods. The fund was rated against the following numbers of U.S.-domiciled Commodities Broad Basket funds over the following time periods: 97 in the last 3 years and 82 in the last 5 years. With respect to these Commodities Broad Basket funds, the fund received a Morningstar Rating of 4 and 5 stars for the 3- and 5-year periods, respectively. Other classes may have different performance characteristics.
