Outperformance with less risk

The fund has generated stronger returns with lower volatility versus nontraditional bond fund averages over the past 5 years.

	BlackRock Strategic Income Opportunities Fund	Morningstar Nontraditional Bond Category Average
Annualized return	2.59%	2.01%
Annualized volatility	4.96%	4.91%
Sharpe ratio	0.08	-0.08

Source: Morningstar. Based on 5-year data as of 04/30/24. Volatility is measured by standard deviation of returns. Higher deviation represents higher volatility. Sharpe ratio uses a fund's monthly standard deviation and excess return (difference between the fund's return and the risk-free return of 90-day Treasury Bills) to determine reward per unit of risk.

	Subsidized	Unsubsidized
30-day SEC yield	5.39	5.38

30-day SEC yield reflects the income earned by an investor in the fund during a 30-day period after deducting the fund's expenses. Unsubsidized SEC yield represents what a fund's 30-day SEC yield would have been had no fee waiver or expense reimbursement been in place over the period.

All data as of 4/30/24. Fund data based on Institutional shares, which may not be available to all investors. Other share classes may vary. Performance data quoted represents past performance and is no guarantee of future results. Investment returns and principal values may fluctuate so that an investor's shares, when redeemed, may be worth more or less than their original cost. All returns assume reinvestment of all dividend and capital gain distributions. Current performance may be lower or higher than that shown. Refer to blackrock.com for recent performance.

The Overall Morningstar Rating of 4 stars pertains to the fund's Institutional shares, rated against 280 Nontraditional Bond Funds as of 4/30/24. Flexible duration for all rate scenarios

Monthly data since inception of the fund's strategy in 3/31/10 through 4/30/24. As a general rule, for every 1% change in interest rates, a bond's price will change approximately 1% in the opposite direction for every year of duration. Therefore, when interest rates rise, bonds with shorter duration fare better. When interest rates fall, bonds with longer duration tend to outperform.

* Values may not equal 100% due to rounding. Asset class exposure shown as a percent of market value. Hedging strategies shown as a percent of notional value and include only short derivative positions. Non-U.S. Sovereign includes the effect of interest rate derivatives. Credit allocations include the notional value of CDX overlay positions. Other category includes equity-related securities, convertibles and other non-classified securities. The fund's exposure to equities is limited to 10% of assets. Cash/Cash Equivalents may include long or short positions pending settlement as well as the market value of traditional bonds and swaps (such as Eurodollar futures) with a maturity date of less than one year. Net Derivatives reflects the approximate notional value of long derivative positions less short derivative positions held in the fund; derivatives typically include, but are not limited to, futures, options and swap contracts.

Diversified sources of return keep volatility low

Since strategy inception, the fund has drawn upon a variety of sources to generate return.

Data is since strategy inception (3/31/10) through 4/30/24. Subject to change. Diversification does not ensure a profit or protect against a loss.

Market movements

In April 2024, the US 10Y Treasury yield climbed to 4.63%, a 45bps increase, as strong economic data led to expectations of one to two Fed rate cuts this year. The labor market added 303K jobs in March, with the unemployment rate dipping to 3.83% and participation rate edging up to 62.7%.

Fed Chair Powell indicated a steady fed funds target range at 5.25-5.50%, citing the intermeeting data did not confirm a sustainable downward inflation trend. March's CPI Report showed a slight upside surprise with headline CPI at 0.38% MoM and Core CPI at 0.36% MoM, translating to 3.5% YoY and 3.8% YoY, respectively. Persistent core services inflation, particularly in Transportation and Medical Services, remains a hurdle to reducing inflation, despite a decrease in Shelter inflation.

The ECB maintained its key interest rates unchanged, with President Lagarde signaling a potential rate cut in June if data aligns. The unwinding energy shock and past ECB rate hikes are expected to bring euro area headline inflation to the ECB's 2% target in 2024.

Following a rate increase in March, the first since 2007, the Bank of Japan kept rates unchanged, projecting inflation near its 2% target until 2026. The 10y JGBs have reached 1%, with the curve's steepness between 5-20s reflecting ongoing BoJ JGB purchases, making the 10y point the richest in the curve.

Duration positioning

Top-line duration remained roughly unchanged at 3.30yrs, with exposure concentrated in the 3-5year part of the yield curve. We continue to favor the belly of the curve given scope for a rally if the yield curve eventually steepens as we expect.

Sector positioning

From a high-quality asset perspective, we tactically increased our exposure to Agency Mortgages, particularly by removing our tactical short position in 5.0+ coupon mortgages. Additionally, we added risk within US IG Credit given attractive high-quality yields and supportive supply-demand dynamics.

Outside of the US, we tactically trimmed our long European Sovereigns exposure, while remaining favorable towards European Credit's attractive all-in yields. Conversely, we reduced risk within Emerging Market Debt, primarily from Local Rates, given concerns around strong US economic data and duration shocks trickling down to risk assets.

Lastly, we trimmed exposure from US HY Credit as we remain cautious down the cap stack and continue to favor higher-quality structured products given the attractive carry.

The breadth and depth of our global fixed income platform allows us to find opportunities as we seek to make a little bit of money a lot of times."

Important risks: The fund is actively managed, and its characteristics will vary. Bond values fluctuate in price so the value of your investment can go down depending on market conditions. Fixed income risks include interest-rate and credit risk. Typically, when interest rates rise, there is a corresponding decline in bond values. Credit risk refers to the possibility that the bond issuer will not be able to make principal and interest payments. Principal of mortgage- or asset-backed securities normally may be prepaid at any time, reducing the yield and market value of those securities. Obligations of U.S. gov't agencies are supported by varying degrees of credit but generally are not backed by the full faith and credit of the U.S. gov't. Derivatives entail risks relating to liquidity, leverage and credit that may reduce returns and increase volatility. International investing involves special risks including, but not limited to currency fluctuations, illiquidity and volatility. These risks may be heightened for investments in emerging markets. Non-investment-grade debt securities (high-yield/junk bonds) may be subject to greater market fluctuations, risk of default or loss of income and principal than higher-rated securities. Short-selling entails special risks. If the fund makes short sales in securities that increase in value, the fund will lose value. Any loss on short positions may or may not be offset by investing short-sale proceeds in other investments.

Exchange-traded funds and open-ended mutual funds are considered a single population for comparative purposes. It is calculated based on a Morningstar Risk-Adjusted Return measure that accounts for variation in a managed product's monthly excess performance, placing more emphasis on downward variations and rewarding consistent performance. The top 10% of products in each product category receive 5 stars, the next 22.5% receive 4 stars, the next 35% receive 3 stars, the next 22.5% receive 2 stars, and the bottom 10% receive 1 star. The Overall Morningstar Rating for a managed product is derived from a weighted average of the performance figures associated with its three-, five-, and 10-year (if applicable) Morningstar Rating metrics. The weights are: 100% three-year rating for 36-59 months of total returns, 60% five-year rating/40% three-year rating for 60-119 months of total returns, and 50% 10-year rating/30% five-year rating/20% three-year rating for 120 or more months of total returns. While the 10-year overall star rating formula seems to give the most weight to the 10-year period, the most recent three-year period actually has the greatest impact because it is included in all three rating periods. With respect to U.S.-domiciled funds in the Nontraditional Bond fund category, the fund received a Morningstar Rating of 3 stars for the 3-year period, rated against 280 funds; 3 stars for the 5-year period, rated against 250 funds; and 4 stars for the 10-year period, rated against 169 funds. Ratings are for Institutional share class. Other classes may have different performance characteristics.
